

Flemington Education Plan

Overview: Flemington Education Plan

The Victorian Government recognises the importance of rejuvenating and transforming education in Melbourne's inner north-west and announced the Flemington Education Plan in the 2018-19 State Budget.

The Flemington neighbourhood will continue to see urban and population growth over the next five to 10 years. The Flemington Education Plan will determine the education needs required to meet that growth, and to respond to the diverse needs of our growing community.

To help create a shared vision for the plan, in May and June 2019 schools and local community were invited to have their say on current and future education in our area. Findings and input from this engagement phase are being used to develop the Flemington Education Plan.

Latest updates

Participating schools of the plan are Mount Alexander College, Debney Meadows Primary School, Ascot Vale Special School and Flemington Primary School.

Since early 2019, the four schools have been working together to share resources, opportunities and strengths. Plans are in place to develop a range of joint programs and approaches to improve teaching and learning for all four schools.

Our schools will continue working together in and beyond 2020, to help ensure the Flemington Education Plan is developed to meet the education needs of our local community.

Background

To date, seven local areas (including Flemington) have a Place-Based Education Plan. It is a long-term vision to transform education system and student outcomes of a local area, based on the current and future educational needs of its growing community.

Flemington has a great potential and significant opportunities to offer the best possible education for its students. The Victorian Government has therefore identified the Flemington neighbourhood to have a Place-Based Education Plan.
